

GPS – Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies

GRADUATE FUNDING

Islamic Development Bank (IDB) - McGill Scholarships

- New IDB sponsorship agreement
- International student funding opportunity
- Recruitment opportunity

In the summer of 2017, McGill signed an agreement with the Islamic Development Bank (IDB) to provide scholarships for citizens of IDB member countries to attract outstanding academic merit scholars to pursue their PhD studies in the fields of Science and Technology at McGill University.

As of Fall 2018, new sponsorship recipients will receive the following funding from IDB annually:

- McGill tuition at the Quebec Resident rate
- Program/ancillary fees
- Health insurance
- Annual living expenses (paid directly to the student each month)

McGill (department/supervisor), in turn, must cover the tuition differential between the International and the Quebec Resident rate (International supplement).

Funding is provided for a maximum period of four (4) years.

Eligibility

In order to be eligible for the IDB-McGill Scholarships, candidates must meet:

- all admission criteria in effect at McGill at the time of application to the University, and receive an offer of admission from McGill University; and
- IDB eligibility criteria.

Application process and deadlines

Student deadline to apply to IDB for Fall 2018 term	October 15, 2017
Student deadline to apply to McGill University for Fall 2018 term	January 15, 2018
IDB Confirms final list of Scholars	January 15, 2018

For more information, visit the IDB-McGill Scholarships website.