

IC Axon provides innovative learning solutions for life science industries. We have 20 years of experience in developing clinical and sales training solutions. Our custom educational programs deliver strategic value to the pharmaceutical, biopharma, veterinary medicine, and medical device industries.

The Role of a Medical Writer

The role of a Medical Writer is to develop the content in a clear fashion for the intended audience of a project. Working under the direction of a Medical Editor develops the content as per the project specifications. The project involves collaboration with other members of the production team.

Responsibilities/daily tasks:

- Writes medical and scientific content for a variety of projects and deliverables targeted to specific audiences according to client specifications
- References materials according to internal SOPS and client specifications
- Works with the project's Editor to ensure that content follows client specifications, is instructionally sound, scientifically valid, well organized, and grammatically correct
- Researches medical/scientific/marketing material to ensure content accuracy and relevance
- Collaborates with graphic artists to produce the visuals to complement script
- Partners with Programmers, Graphics Artists, and the Multimedia Specialists to write interactive eLearning storyboards
- Works with all team members and departments to produce a uniform project

Requirements:

- Graduate degree in medical/life sciences field (e.g., bio-medical field)
- Minimum of 1 year of experience in relevant science writing
- Excellent English writing and presentation skills
- Strong communication and interpersonal skills
- Ability to meet deadlines and multitask
- Excellent computer skills: Word, PowerPoint, Outlook, Internet, Reference Manager
- Comfortable working in a fast-paced, collaborative environment
- Ability to travel occasionally to the United States (valid passport)

Assets:

- Knowledge or formal training in medical or scientific writing
- Prior experience in medical writing
- Teaching experience
- Knowledge of AMA style guide
- Member of a writing association
- Experience in multimedia: web writing, graphics

Please send your application to: cv@icaxon.com